UNIR's MBA programme is accredited by the Spanish Ministry of Education, Culture and Sport. Candidates who complete the MBA programme will receive a Master of Business Administration by the International University of La Rioja.

The MBA programme by UNIR predicates its excellence on three main concepts:

1. Technological basis and focus: the advent of technology has completely transformed how we understand business, and only those professionals who can adapt to this change will have a competitive edge that ensures they are successful.
2. Entrepreneurship: the MBA by UNIR is aimed at professionals who want to attain excellence in organisational management, and it is also intended for students who want to set up their own businesses.
3. Internationalisation: in a global setting, companies and their managers need to take advantage of the opportunities offered by emerging markets to seek the best destinations for their products and services.

Objectives of the MBA

The MBA in Business Management and Administration by UNIR will provide you with the essential skills and knowledge to manage and direct a business in the current context. The MBA:

- Is global and comprehensive: you will acquire an extensive overview of the different organisational areas of a business - administration and finances, sales and marketing, operations, quality, production and human resources;
- Offers customised learning: you will optimise your potential in groups that have been purposefully organised to promote teamwork among students and fulfil the aspirations of individual students;

- Uses case studies: you will work with case studies from Harvard and IESE, among others, using analysis to make decisions in real-life situations and settings;
- Hones management skills: you will acquire the necessary skills to recognise, analyse and resolve business conflicts, as well as negotiate and manage people;
- Teaches entrepreneurship: you will learn how to develop new business projects with cutting edge methodologies (lean approach);
- Is based on international markets: you will gain expertise in managing companies in a range of markets;
- Analyses the Digital environment: you will learn in-depth knowledge about business in the current online setting.

Once you have completed the programme, you will have a global and comprehensive vision of the main areas of a company and you will know how to manage a business to make it successful.

You will be able to make decisions, lead technological change, use information tools for strategic business management and employ innovation to give you a competitive edge. All skills learnt will be applied in the context of companies that operate in a range of settings and international markets

Internationally recognised

UNIR is the only Spanish university that is a member of the four largest, most prestigious and academic business associations. The fact that UNIR is a member of these organisations attests to its educational quality on an international scale. Furthermore, it has obtained several awards from recognised institutions.

UNIR is a member of the Association to Advance Collegiate Schools of Business (AACSB)

The AACSB comprises institutions that share a fundamental objective: ongoing improvement of training in management. The AACSB's strict standards verify the qualifications of university teaching staff, their contributions to management research, the quality of programmes taught at the university and the quality of teaching. The AACSB also analyses the contributions of universities in the area of social responsibility and ethics.

UNIR is a member of the European Foundation for Management Development (EFMD)

With its HQ in Brussels, the EFMD was established in 1997 with the objective of providing Europe with an accreditation system on par with the AACSB. They started by certifying the quality of European universities and business schools, and subsequently extended their certification process to include educational centres in other countries.

UNIR is a member of the Association of MBAs (AMBA)

With its headquarters in London, the AMBA network was established in 1967 by a group of business diploma holders. Its aim was to improve standards in management training for MBAs in the UK and Europe.

Since then, AMBA has certified around 200 universities and business schools that offer MBAs, DBAs and MBMs, in more than 80 countries worldwide. The association connects students and MBA graduates with recognised universities, business schools and companies in more than 110 countries. Its research centre, the Evidence and Ideas Lab, analyses global trends in management training.

UNIR is a full member, the highest category, of the Latin American Council of Management Schools (CLADEA)

CLADEA is a leading business school network on a worldwide scale. As an international organisation, it provides a system of global cooperation and upholds reciprocal membership benefits with the largest academic institutions in the world. It currently has 226 affiliated institutions, both private and public, in the Americas, Europe and Oceania.

Metodología

Discover the methodology of the Master in Business Administration (MBA) online.

Compared to the traditional methodologies of other universities, at UNIR's Faculty of Business and Communication we use the Impact Learning methodology, which guarantees an excellent learning experience adapted to the challenges of a constantly evolving changing environment.

With our personalized and efficient study method, you will be able to attend classes and combine your studies with your personal life and your work with maximum flexibility.

The Impact Learning methodology is based on these four pillars:

1. Experiential Learning

- Daily online classes live and direct: We teach classes every day of the week, but if you can't attend or have doubts, you can access any of them on a delayed basis as many times as you need. You will have 21 high-impact online sessions per subject lasting 45 minutes in which you can interact live with the teacher.
- Live virtual laboratories and workshops: specialized workshops by degree to delve into the latest professional trends and the most innovative tools on the market.
- Practical activities: inspired by the simulation of real learning environments that prepare you for business reality:
 - » Case method: a learning methodology based on learning by doing, used by prestigious universities such as Harvard and Stanford, which trains you to make strategic decisions in companies through the resolution of real cases.

- » Forums: debate and reflection sessions in which high impact content is used (short cases, readings, podcasts ...).

- Virtual Campus: is our online platform designed to optimize your learning, where you will find everything you need to study at UNIR: classes, professors, classmates, schedules, chats and much more.
- Didactic resources: You will have access to different learning resources to complete your training such as a digital library, complementary reading, summaries with key ideas, self-assessment tests, etc.

2. Skills learning – UNIR footprint:

In addition to the specific professional skills linked to each degree (hard skills), the labor market demands the acquisition of transversal skills (soft skills) that are essential for any professional who faces the challenges of today's environment.

In all our programs you will find the UNIR Footprint, a set of specific modules with which you will develop your transversal skills, such as leadership, time management, effective communication, project management, etc.

3. Monitoring and networking

At UNIR we always accompany you:

- Personal tutor: from the first day we will assign you a personal tutor who will be in contact with you by phone and by email to support you and help you with any questions that may arise.

- Professors: They will follow the progress of your learning and help you whenever you need it through group coaching, individual feedback, and in the group session for the preparation of the exam.
- Networking: You will be able to develop an active networking that will give you the possibility of establishing relationships with people from any part of the world with common professional interests, through the debate spaces, expert panels, chats, etc.

4. Personalized learning

At UNIR we create groups of students with similar profiles based on their knowledge and professional experience. In this way, we give you the option of drawing up your own learning itinerary to differentiate yourself and successfully position yourself in the job market.

Entry requirements

To be accepted on the MBA programme, candidates must have a university degree, as stipulated in article 7 of the Royal Decree 39/1997. This requirement corresponds to the access criteria set out in article 16 of the Royal Decree 1393/2007. Students must:

- Hold an official Spanish university degree or a degree from a university in the European Higher Education Area, which authorises the degree holder to enter a Master's programme;
- Hold a degree from an educational system outside the European Higher Education Area, without needing to officially validate the degree, following verification by the University that the university in question certifies an educational level that is equivalent to the corresponding official Spanish university qualifications and that they are authorised in the issuing country of the degree to grant access to postgraduate education. Accessing the MBA programme this way does not mean that the degree holder's previous qualification will be officially validated or recognised to any other effect except for studying the MBA online programme.
